Be Prepared program – Web Directory October 2022

The web page links listed throughout this directory provide access to the Be Prepared programs online library of public education materials. The program was developed to support community leader's efforts in building individual and community resilience and can complement existing programming, be adapted to fit different situations, and incorporated into routine communications.

The program is maintained by the Alberta Emergency Management Agency and informed by research and a broad network of subject matter experts.

We consider diversity, inclusion, and accessibility an essential component of these public education materials and look forward to incorporating more of these elements as the Be Prepared program continues to evolve.

Become a Resilience Builder

Join a network of people who have an interest in building resilience at the local level. By joining this network, you will stay informed through our quarterly bulletin with updates on the Be Prepared program and information on opportunities that can support your resilience building efforts.

On occasion, you will receive a Prepare to Respond. These emails include a preparedness message that provides timely preparedness information relating to a current event. You can copy and paste the message into your own communication channels (and edit it for your audience) to encourage them to take steps to reduce their risk.

Weekly preparedness message

To keep preparedness front of mind year-round, we send a weekly preparedness message. Edit the message to make it more relatable to your community members by adding local context and images. They are a good fit for newsletters, social media, and internal emails to name a few.

Email BePrepared@gov.ab.ca to join the resilience builder network and get a preparedness message each week.

Who are we?

Strategic Partnerships and Public Education is a team within the Alberta Emergency Management Agency, a division of the Ministry of Public Safety and Emergency Services. We work with our partners to develop inclusive programming to build resilience at the local level.
